The Portal

A portal is an entrance or threshold. Therefore, it is fitting that this book, which contains a record of what we have done, and a prophecy as to what we will do, should be called the Portal. We have reached the Portal opening on a new and uncertain future. As we pass out of this scene, the gates will close behind us on a great chapter of our lives. We have little realized, until now, what it has meant to go to Barringer. But as the time of parting draws near, we see what the help of our kindly teachers has meant to us and how much we owe them. It is to show our appreciation of their efforts if for nothing else, that we must play the game of life well.

We shall start on the long trail that leads to happiness. We will be attacked by many dangers, but thanks to our training we shall start out well equipped to overcome them. Some of us will pass on to college life, others will choose to make their mark in the world of Business; some will be lawyers, doctors, engineers, and not a few will dedicate their lives to the teaching of others. All will try in some way to make life more bearable for others.

And now as the gates swing closed and we stand on the threshold of our new life, we say "Farewell!"

Our Class History--A Fairy Tale

OT, Elva and I, one day in our travels, chanced upon a mammoth portal, through which could be seen a beautiful park and a vine-covered building, upon which was written "Barringer High School." There was something about the beautiful vista which lured us to pass through the portal. But lo! when we were already within, the gates shut behind us with a bang! Our surprise had scarcely abated, when alas! (to our eternal woe) we were seized by a huge, terrible giant. The sight of him alone, with the tawny skin of a lion thrown across his massive shoulders, and a great club in his hand, which he brandished aloft menacingly, instilled such profound awe and dread in our hearts that we crouched before him in terror, supplicating his good will toward us. Without heeding our entreaties, the awe-inspiring giant thundered these words at us with a booming, gruff, terrifying voice, "You are doomed to four years of servitude and drudgery in yonder prison called Barringer High School. You will always be subject to my jurisdiction and that of my assistants. However, if your behavior during the four years is bad you will be imprisoned as long as may be necessary to mould you into good, conscientious students, even if it takes eight years to do so. I say students, for such you will be—you will be compelled to absorb vast knowledge from books; you will study Latin, Spanish, French, German, Mathematics, English, History, Economics, Chemistry, Physics and all such subjects which will tax your brains and your strength, for it will be a severe task and hardship to you. But if your behavior is good, you will be requitted with favors from me, you will be freed at the close of the allotted four years, for I am a just and kind ruler."

Though his mien belied his words, what could we do but believe him and accept his ordeal? Pop Stearns (for this we found later to be our captor's name) took us within Barringer High School and cast us among a group of boys and girls, who, with a sumptuous reception welcomed us to the class of January, 1925. For this we shall always be grateful to Mr. Stearns, for we soon learned to love our classmates, and together we underwent severe and cruel labors, which in the school parlance were termed "homework and plugging."

Two years had passed since our imprisonment in Barringer in February, 1921, during which time we passed through many trials and tribulations. However, mingled with our moments of despair (flunking in exams) were moments of high elation (tens in Latin). Our tasks were also leviated by assembly periods once a week, which served as respite for our shattered nerves from gruelling and arduous recitations. Thus gradually it dawned upon us that our imprisonment was in reality a good thing for us and that Pop Stearns was a most propitious jailkeeper.

Then came the great event!!! On that memorable afternoon of May 21, 1923, at exactly 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the shot was fired which was heard throughout Pop Stearns' vast domains, and Branch Brook Park itself quaked under its deafening rumbling. That shot was the formal organizations of the most illustrious class which ever assembled within the realms of Barringer. Uncle Ammarell, one of Pop Stearns' assistants, whom the latter appointed as the warden of our class for the remainder of our imprisonment, officiated at this gathering. This appointment was the most fortunate thing that could have happened to us, for Uncle Ammarell was the most genial and kindest giant of all Mr. Stearns' assistants. And so, on that eventful afternoon we rewarded four of our most distinguished fellow-prisoners with highly honorable positions at the head of our class. We chose as president, Ray Robrecht, as vice-president, Alice Everts; as secretary, Don Slee; as treasurer, Ruth Lillybridge. Thus, under the efficient guidance of these four valiant chiefs, we passed through another half year of our happy imprisonment.

Pop Stearns, feeling that his assistants were entitled to a much needed rest from holding the reins over so mischievous and unruly a class, sent them away for a vacation of two months. Our class, being left without its stern rulers, was given parole until the return of our jailers. During this time we gleefully set forth to our coverts in the wilds of Branch Brook Park, where we swam, hunted, and fished to our hearts' content. But alas—our pleasures were short lived, for in September we were ordered to return to our prison by an official proclamation of Pop Stearns.

On our return, we again held elections for class officers. Ray Robrecht was chosen president; Etta McHale, vice-president; Don Slee, secretary, and Edwin Burke, treasurer.

Our warden, Uncle Ammarell, seeing the gaunt and hungry look upon our faces, took compassion upon us, and offered us a feasible plan, whereby we could eat—and sell chocolate. And so during the week November 19 to November 26, our class held its famous chocolate sale. It was a week in which we imagined ourselves in the Seventh Heaven—for besides selling vast quantities of chocolate, thus filling the coffers of our class treasury, we did nothing but eat, eat, eat chocolate to our hungry stomach's content, and rattle, rattle, rattle paper wrappings to our jailers' discontent and our impish delight. Due to the excellent work of the committee, comprised of Alma Strombach, William Sheehan, Harry Mulhern, Abe Honigfeld,<sup>1</sup> Jerome Weil, Rea Bingham, Dorothy Yuill, Ronald Bishop and Solomon Golatsky, the chocolate sale, on the whole, was a huge success.

Then February 21, 1924, saw the advent of the last year of our imprisonment in Barringer High School. Again we chose officers to guide us, and again Ray Robrecht was elected president, Alma Strombach, vice-president; Donald Slee, secretary; Milton Block, treasurer.

A great event came in this year of our imprisonment. Pop Stearns and Uncle Ammarell, seeing that our hard labors were beginning to tell on us, allowed us a diversion from our tasks in the form of a dance. We indeed enjoyed ourselves immensely at the dance, which proved to be a great success, under the excellent management of the committee consisting of Alma Strombach, Jack Cooper, Harry Evertz and Lois Lane.

As a badge of our servitude, a representation of the class, the members of which were Harry Mulhern, Alice Evertz, Richard Johnson, Etta McHale, and Rose Andres selected a beautiful gold ring, upon which was graven a block "B" and 1925—the year of our release. These same representatives chose for the colors of our banner, around which we could rally in times of stress and disappointment, red and gray.

One of the saddest yet happiest occasions of our scholastic careers was the farewell reception our class gave to the Class of June 1924, who were one the verge of passing outward through the portal, a half year before us.

For four hours we merrily tripped the light fantastic to the tunes of an orchestra well versed in the intricacies of Jazz. But when the clock struck twelve on that night of June 30, 1924, we regretfully escorted our predecessors to the portal, where, as they passed through the gates and out of our lives forever, with tears in our eyes, we bade them a sad farewell.

Thus we succeeded them as "Senior A's" or "4A's," for the class in the last half year of its imprisonment, was designated by these titles. New liberties were bestowed upon us now, by our kind jailers. The entire prison stood in awe of us, the little "freshmen" (new prisoners) cowered before us, fearing lest we should let loose our wrath upon them.

Our new found happiness, however, was somewhat marred when our beloved

President, Ray Robrecht, committed an atrocious deed (failed to study and flunked a Spanish exam.) for which Pop Stearns, in anger, consigned him to a lower dungeon, where he was compelled to undergo a probation of two months in complete seclusion before he could return to our class. This ignominious punishment made our dear President ineligible to ever again be our leader. Thus when we elected officers for our Senior A Class, we chose Fred Breithut, a brave, valiant hero, as our president, Etta McHale, vice-president; Don Slee, secretary, Milton Block, treasurer.

Meanwhile, more and more new prisoners were pouring into Barringer High School, whom we saw fit to call "wee willie one bees." We prepared a magnificent reception for these "one bees"; tables were piled high with delicious viands, and a pleasant entertainment was offered under the supervision of a committee, on which were Alma Strombach, Thelma Taylor, Harry Doremus, Harry Mulhern and Donald Slee. At this gay affair, we proud, dignified Seniors so far lowered our dignity as to even suck lollipops together with the insignificant, little "wee willie one bees."

Then there came a great event in the history of our class. On Thursday evening, November 13, 1924, our class presented a most spectacular play to the entire prison. Under the efficient guidance of a committee, on which were Sylvia Greenberg, Etta McHale, Bob White, Alice Evertz, Harry Mulhern, and with the aid of Unk Ammarell, Mr. King and Mr. Nicklas (the latter two being Pop Stearns' assistants) we scored a tremendous hit with the play which was called "The District School of Blueberry Corners." Never was so lavish, nor so gorgeous a production seen on any stage. The acting was superb. The leading man, Leo Korn, with his wonderful talent, and the supporting cast with their perfect characterizations, threw the audience into convulsive fits of laughter. It was laugh, laugh, laugh, from the rise of the curtain to the fall of the curtain. The play will, indeed, always live in the annals of Barringer High School.

At last came the great day—the day of our release. Attended by Pop Stearns, Unk Ammarell, and our other jailers, we walked to the portal. But lo! when we arrived there, a huge dragon barred our exit! He was a terrible monster, continually spitting out hissing fire from his jaws. As he bared his fangs menacingly, he bellowed these words at us, "You shall not pass through this portal until you first conquer me, for I will oppose you. I am your nemesis—I am "Final Examinations!"

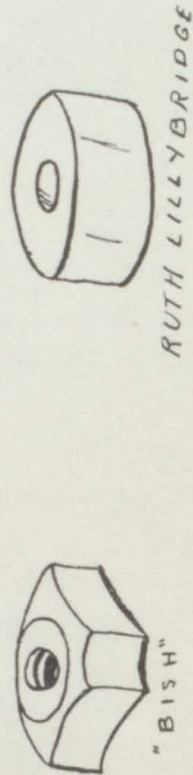

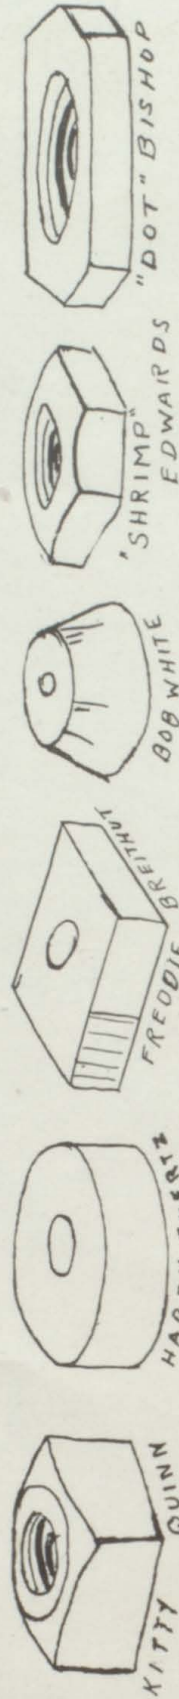

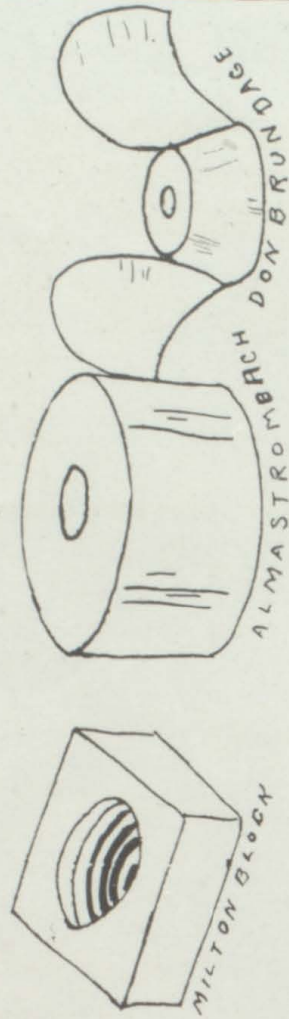

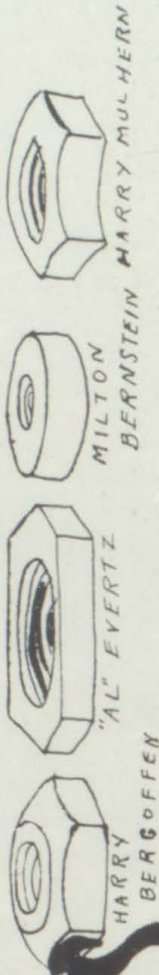

At first we were dumfounded, but regaining our senses, we charged upon the dreadful monster, led on by Unk Ammarell and President Breithut. But a few of our classmates held back, not because of their cowardice, but because of their reluctance to slay the monster, thereby making the road clear for their departure from their prison—Barringer High School, which had become so endeared to their hearts. However, urged on by shouts of encouragement and instructions from Pop Stearns and his assistants, we assailed the dragon with renewed fury. One by one we plunged our swords into the monster's groin, his gore spurted out, until, finally, in dreadful agony, he rolled over, and with a terrifying roar groaned his last. We had conquered Final Examinations—the portal now lay open for us! With no delay we burst through it; we were free, free at last! But on the other side of the portal there was no gladness in our hearts, only deep sorrow and gloom, for we had become attached strongly to our prison, and now we were leaving it, leaving it forever. Thus with crying hearts, and eyes streaming with tears, we bade dear old Barringer our last farewell.

Class Prophecy

HURRY! Hurry! We'll never reach the theatre on time, if you don't. Yes, I reserved tickets this afternoon at Plotkin's new agency. By the way, whom do you think I saw? You'll never guess! Our old friend, Clara Vitiello demonstrating the use of Zemel's Hair Restorer; it's guaranteed to grow hair on a billiard ball.

"No, I don't think that your new chapeau has arrived from Madame Greenberg's yet. Who is supposed to deliver it? Cohen? Well then, I guess you'd better expect the hat when you see it. Please hurry!"

Ready at last, we were speedily whizzed down thirty-two flights to the ground floor, by the smiling elevator-boy, Harris. We donned our Fulcher Fast Flyers, which are but the size of an ordinary diamond bar-pin. By pressing one of the jewels we were moved gently but firmly, without any motion on our parts.

"Truly, this is an age of marvelous invention," I mused, "lucky is he who lives in this glorious day. In the youthful ego of my high school years never did I even dream of a time when a thirty-five story building would be termed a cottage and winged shoes of Mercury would have become a reality in the form of Hart's Heel Hasteners."

Then my reverie was interrupted by the sight of Mulhern's Metropolitan Mansion of the Masque, our destination. In front of the theatre we recognized various old friends of ours: Calasibetta, Vincent Beradesca and Frances Piserchia arguing over which of them should treat. Elva Dolan came over to greet us and ask for a donation for the Home for Suffering Crossword Puzzle Addicts.

Entering, we gave our tickets to Paul Gliken, the doorman. We were ushered to our seats by Albert's Automatic Ushering Device. Glancing at our programs, several familiar faces greeted us: Leo Korn, advertising Sticco for the Gentleman's Haircomb, and Rabinowitz, the present Arrow Collar man. Lambert's shrill cries presenting his concentrated confection rang through the crowd.

As we looked about at the crowd many familiar faces greeted our sight. Ronald Bishop, the renowned editor of Town Tales, sat surrounded by many of his associates in the world of journalism; Johnson, the cub reporter; Bernstein, the famous business manager; Weil, the conductor of the popular Mr. Fairfax column, and Mango, the sport editor. A few seats away from this group sat Harry Doremus, the cynical dramatic critic. Just then, Lois Lane, the famous authoress entered, bearing in her hand an autographed copy of her latest book, "Why I Am the Brainiest Woman in the World." Aloof from the throng, in a box, sat Raymond Robert Robrecht, the prominent toreador.

The orchestra, composed of Cherniavsky, Komishane, Manz, Schneider, Sklaw and Geller, led by Jerome Litvak, then rendered a very dramatic overture of Monsieur Robert White's masterpiece, "The Twine," a piece remarkably similar to that very old song, "The Lost Chord."

As the curtain rose, a hush came over the whole house save in the fourth balcony, where Terry McGovern's voice roared, "Buy my peanuts and popcorn! Only a nickel, ladies and gents!"

The first act of this variety performance was indeed a thrilling one: Lily Shapiro, Ruth Moskowitz, Ciasco and Pavia did many hair-raising acrobatic stunts. One in particular delighted me. Ciasca and Pavia, each at different sides of the stage, by means of the Mango Radio Set, broadcasted to each other while Lily and Ruth, on surf boards, electrified the audience, riding on the radio waves. Then Pavia walked on his hands across the stage with the toher three standing one on top of the other on his feet. Then Antoinette Baldanza came handspringing out from behind the scenes, doing what she alone can do—sixty-six somersaults in succession.

The curtain slid up on the next act, showing a beautiful woodland scene. Enter Bergoffen, merrily tooting the pipes of Pan. Round and round the stage he danced, garbed in several huge leopard skins furnished by Gansler's Arctic Aeroplane Fur Company. Completing his aerie dance, he stood to one side and played a merry tune for his sprightly followers: Golatsky, Hoppe, Reilly, Manz and Phillipson, who tripped on the light fantastic toe, gaily clad in bright hued chiffon robes. Then the young ladies of the chorus, swaying gently to the tune of "We Amble Around to Ammy's Room," gracefully pirouetted across the gay scene. The familiar faces of Anna DeMaggio, Margaret Fanna, Evelyn Klintworth, Rose Andres, Dorothy Yuill, Louise Weiss, Florence Freda, Genevieve Sibilia and Eleanor Ahr smiled down at us. Then all joined hands about Bergoffen, who touchingly sang "Come My Love," as Laura Roberts appeared from behind a slim birch tree. She answered his call by singing a charming song, "Me Voici." Then the curtain fell upon the assembled nymphs and satyrs.

Next came a delightful skit entitled, "Bits of Shakespeare." The three weird women in their weirdest of weird guises were portrayed by Dot Bishop, Jo Milman and Alice Evertz.

Then Romiet and Julio appeared in the famous balcony scene. Alma Strombach, as Julio, serenaded her shy lover, Romiet, played by Donald Brundage. She sang a very touching lyric, "Come To Your Little Cabbage Rose," by Michalino Corbo.

"Did Julius Caesar," was the next scene that was presented for our approval. Freddie Breithut made a noble Brutus, slaying his friend Caesar, portrayed by Meigs in a quarrel over Portia, aptly played by Thelma Taylor. The other conspirators: Harry Evertz, Walling Edwards, James Williamson, Milton Gordon, Donald Slee and Louis Geller surrounding Seiber as lean Cassius.

Next the Silber twins, masquerading for Rosalind in "As You Like It," jumbled our thoughts decidedly for the final curtain of the act.

The curtain rose on the next act to the lively time of Eskin's world famous orchestra, in which we recognize "We've Got Those B. H. S. Blues," by Ruth Lillybridge. At the saxophone we see Leviss, while the trombone is tooted by Manfro. The trap drummer looks strangely like Mango. If there isn't Burtis Morningstern with his violin and Kitty Quin with her "Kazoo." Four synthetic steppers jazzed across the stage arrayed in hula hula costumes. Rea Bingham, Etta McHale, and Mildred Unfried, we are ashamed of you. The next song, entitled "Oh Those Good Old Days in 36" was a howling hit with Evelyn Lewitt shaking her wicked shoulders.

As I turned to take another goody from the box I noted that it had been prepared in "Filomena Addonizio's Popular Candy Kitchen."

In the last act, after Jimmie Smith had made a hit singing the nine hundred and ninety-ninth version of "Mammy" through his black paint, a cackling laugh rang out from the upper gallery. Where had I heard that laugh before? Surely it was familiar! Oh, I have it, that's the way Block used to laugh in Latin class. He must be here now trying to educate his inner self. Maybe he has some of his other noisy friends with him.

When Jimmie had retired after much applause, Marie Kisling entered from the left, a valuable specimen, the only living reminder of the Jersey City fires, when we were in high school in 1925.

After the final curtain, George Spann came out to announce that we must not fail to see "Madame Ricigliano" in the stupendous production, "Other Men's Spots."

Then we gathered together, all of us old school mates and cheered old times and talked about the good old days of 1925.

Class Song of January, 1925

We've reached our journey's end at last
Dear Alma Mater.
The curtain draws upon our past
Dear Alma Mater.
We'll ne'er forget the endless fight
To reach what seemed beyond our might.
We'll ne'er forget the Blue and White,
Dear Alma Mater.

We now depart, but with regret,
Dear Alma Mater.
To you we owe an unpaid debt,
Dear Alma Mater.
However far we chance to be,
In sunny clime, on deep blue sea,
We'll ne'er forget to think of thee,
Dear Alma Mater.

A final toast before we go,
Dear Alma Mater.
Here's to the school that we love so,
Dear Alma Mater.
We'll keep your banner free from shame
And bring it upward into fame
With Barringer, your noble name,
Dear Alma Mater.

Football

Barringer has again completed what Coach Pritchard terms "a successful season." It is true that one or two results might have been more to our liking but—we can't have everything. This year has been one of many upsets, so, of course, Barringer couldn't be left out. Still we showed that our fighting spirit was nothing daunted by the way we came out ahead in the Thanksgiving game. The first four or five games of the season were not easy by any means, and the team fought hard for their victories, but the latter part of the schedule was far more difficult than the beginning. However, the boys showed true blue spirit and came out on top. It seems, from the attitude taken before the "Big Game," that our rivals were the favorites, but this time it was Barringer's turn to stage the "upset", making the result of the East Orange game 14-13 in our favor. Next year, under Halsey Bechtel, the '25 captain-elect, we hope for as successful a season with as fine a finish. The man to whom Captain Breithut has handed down the reins of leadership is not a spectacular player, but he's always on the job and will give all he has to the team.

FRED BREITHUT

Frederick Breithut, familiarly known as "Freddy", began his athletic career in the spring of '22 when he went out for a position on the baseball team. He was successful and earned his letter. He went out for football and made the varsity team in the fall of '22. In '23 he went out for baseball again and was awarded another "B". In the fall of '23 Fred tried his hand at football again and he was very successful, landing a position on the varsity team. He received a gold football at the end of the season. In the spring of '24, Fred was out there playing baseball, but now as the Captain of the team. He led his team to the N. J. I. A. A. Championship. The whole team was awarded gold baseballs. In the fall of '24 Fred was chosen to captain the Barringer High eleven. He led his team through a very successful season and finally to a victory over East Orange by a narrow margin of 14-13. The team was awarded gold footballs as the N. J. I. A. A. Champs. Fred has proven to be one of our most versatile athletes and ranks with the best fullbacks in the State. He was chosen on the mythical all-State eleven of '24.

RAY ROBRECHT

Ray began his football career in '21. The best he could do that year was to make the second team, but he did not play in any of the games. In 1922 he was a first team substitute and he played in a few games, but still he did not get his varsity letter. In 1923 he played tackle on the varsity team and finally made his emblem. He also played tackle on the varsity team of '24 and was chosen as one of the best tackles in the city. Ray, besides winning two letters, has also received two gold footballs. Ray was also selected as a guard on the All-State eleven.

DON BRUNDAGE

Don began his athletic career in the fall of '23, when he succeeded in gaining a substitute berth at right guard. He was sent into the East Orange game and so he received his letter and also a gold football.

After Christmas of the same year, he determined to try his hand, or rather his foot, at track. He ran the quarter mile during the indoor season. At the beginning of the outdoor season Mr. Bauman fooled everybody, including Don, by entering him in the low hurdles. He was third highest in the total number of points scored during the season.

At the grand opening of this football season, Mr. Pritchard, thinking perhaps that he could duplicate Mr. Bauman's strategy, shifted him over to end position. But he did not make such a great success of this and he was shifted back to right guard. In the East Orange game Don played end on the defensive and his work must certainly be commented upon. He received another letter and also a gold football.

HARRY "FAT" BERGOFFEN

Who hasn't heard of "Fat" Bergoffen? "Fat" Bergoffen made his debut in Barringer athletics in the fall of '21. He received his uniform because he fell on a ball and broke it. After much diligent work he received his "B2". The next year he came out with a more determined effort and earned a position as tackle on the varsity eleven. He made his letter by playing in the East Orange game. In '23 he played on the varsity eleven and was chosen on the mythical All-State eleven. The fall of '24 saw Bergoffen out for football, playing his favorite tackle position. He will certainly be missed by Coach Pritchard next year. "Fat", by the way, has received two gold footballs.

WILBUR MEIGS

Wilbur has been one of Barringer's faithful scrubs. He went out for the varsity football team in '21 and took up the job of playing center. He was certainly ambitious, but Pete Tillou rendered useless his efforts. In the fall of '23 he alternated at playing guard and tackle. As the fall of '24 approached, Wilbur determined to succeed in football and he really did. He played in the East Orange game, which gave him his letter and a gold football.

WALTER "RED" WALSH

"Red" first went out for football in the fall of '22. With Brundage and Eichorn starring on the varsity team in the fall of '23, Walter had to be satisfied with a second team position. "Red" played on the varsity team during the season of '24 and he made his letter and a gold football.

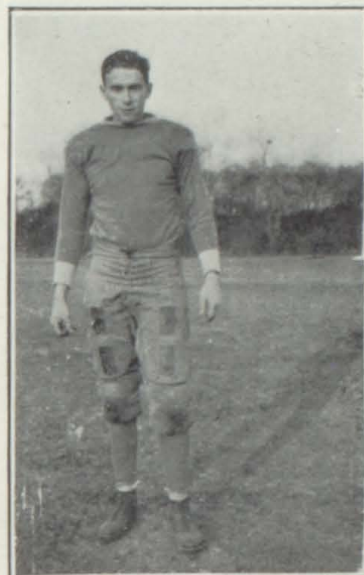

GEORGE SPANN

George is one of the boys who stuck to his job for three years and has now earned the much coveted "B". He was very successful this year, playing at a halfback position in every game. He will also receive a gold football.

GRANT "TERRY" McGOVERN

"Mac" is certainly one fellow who deserves his letter. He played on the second team for three years and after his successful work on the gridiron in '24, he played in the East Orange game and not only received an emblem but also a gold football.

RUTH LILLYBRIDGE

Our outstanding star is Ruth. She played hockey in '23 and '24. She also appeared in the gym exhibition. Ruth is the only girl who will get a gold tassel as a reward for three gym cords in succession and a senior cord. Lots of luck to you, Ruth.

DOROTHY BISHOP

"Ditto" is one of our most popular athletes at Barringer. She played on the basketball team of '22. The hockey team depended a great deal on "Ditto"—in '21, '23 and '24. In her senior year she appeared in the gym meet held in the Barringer gym. She received gym cords in '21 and '22 and it is more than likely that she will receive another this term.

LILY SHAPIRO

Who doesn't know our little "Lil?"—the best athlete ever. The Basketball team of '23 couldn't get along without her. She excelled all in the hockey teams of '23 and '24. "Lil" received a cord in '23 and expects to receive one in '24. Wherever she goes, a splendid record of gymnastics is left.

ALICE EVERTZ

Alice is another of our good athletes. She was one of the triumvirate with "Ditto" and "Fil" on the senior hockey team. In '24 she appeared in the gym meet. We expect to hear more of her good work again.

EVELYN KLINTWORTH

Included in our list we mustn't forget "Evy." She played on the basketball team of '23. She also expects a gym cord in her last year.

FILOMENA ADDONIZIO

"Fil" is one of our outstanding figures in the athletic field. She played on the basketball team of '22 and '23. In '22 she went out for hockey and showed her ability in the teams of '23 and '24. "Fil" was also in the gym meet of '24. We expect her to get a cord this term.

Some Barringer Activities

THE SERVICE CLUB

This term the Service Club has been very active under the leadership of Etta McHale, president; Ann Brewer, vice-president; Lillian Knight, secretary, and Margaret Vance, treasurer. Besides sending Christmas cartons to the poor, selling football badges and programs for the Thanksgiving game, the club is selling some real, true Barringer stationery. Elizabeth Hunter has charge of the latter. The Service Club has also put into operation a system to relieve the teachers of their noon-hour duties in the basement, and to keep the lower halls free from congestion and rubbish. This movement was worked out by a member of the 4B Class, a girl prominent in our school activities, Margaret Vance. Barringer, now more than ever, has come to realize the value of the Girls' Service Club.

4B CLASS

Early in the term the 4B Class reorganized, choosing Bob Scott, president; Barbara Averill, vice-president; Miriam Barney, secretary, and Richard Potter, treasurer. The biggest piece of work of the Senior B Class was to start a movement for a standard Barringer ring, something the school has long needed.

3A CLASS

The 3A Class elected for its officers this year: Halsey Becketl, president; Gretchen Petry, vice-president; Myrtle Reilly, secretary, and Bruce Hardin, treasurer. Due to the fact that Mr. Taylor, the class adviser, has been ill for a part of the term, and the duties of a strenuous football season have occupied the time of its president, the 3A Class has not been very active, but next term much will be looked for.

3B CLASS

Contrary to the usual custom, the youngest class of Barringer organized very early in the term. The class elected Henry Schoettly president; Mabel Gracie, vice-president; Gabrielle Tetaz, secretary, and Jack Chenowith( treasurer. The class is to be congratulated on having secured Mr. Milwitzky as advisor. The 3B's showed the school that they intended to start off right by sponsoring the Marionette Show, which was a huge success.

Pauline—It's very good of you to ask me to this dance.

Milton—Don't mention it—it's a charity ball.

Rich Man—Would you love my daughter just as much if she had no money?

Suitor—Why certainly!

Rich Man—That's sufficient. I don't want any idiots in this family.

Alma—I called up a football man last night and before I was through I had used five nickels.

Lil—How expensive!

Alma—That was all right. I got my quarterback.

Milton B.—Not happy? With so brilliant a bride? Why man, you got the girl who was the talk of the town.

Jerry W.—So I discover.

Father—How is it, young man, that I find you kissing my daughter? How is it, I ask you?

Y. M.—Oh, it's great! It's great, sir.

Said a bald-headed man to a waitress bold:

"See here, young woman, my cocoa's cold!"

She scornfully answered, "I can't help that;

"If the blame thing's chilly, put on your hat."

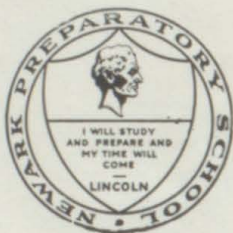

Freddie—See that chalk on my shoulder?

Shrimp—Yes.

Freddie—Well, that isn't chalk!

Mr. Pritchard—Late hours aren't good for one.

Robrecht—No, but they are for two.

It was visiting day at the jail and the uplifters were on deck.

"My good man," said one kindly lady, "I hope that since you have come here you have had time for meditation and have decided to correct your faults."

"I have that, mum," replied the prisoner in heartfelt tones. "Believe me, the next job I pull, this baby wears gloves."

Boston Boy—While your mode of address, sir, seems to me to savor of undue, not to say unwarrantable, familiarity, you shall have the information you seek. ## The College of Engineering

— of —

The Newark Technical School

A local institution of college grade giving regular four-year professional engineering courses leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Chemical, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering.

The certificate of a first-class 4-year high school or equivalent work is required for entrance.

The college of Engineering offers to the young men of Newark and vicinity an opportunity to get a sound education at home at a reasonable cost.

A certain number of scholarships are available to young men of promise who have not the necessary funds.

Inquiries should be directed to the Registrar.

Dusty—De old guy offered me a job turning a grind stone.

Weary—Were you shocked?

Dusty—Shocked! Why I didn't know which way to turn.

Ray—Runt, you're too blasé; some day I'll give you a piece of my mind.

Bergoffen—Big boy, you'd be foolish to divide up a little thing like that.

Edna J.—Jerry doesn't like me in this bathing suit and he's gone away mad.

Edith F.—The idea of a man getting mad over a little thing like that.
